Go to your Security and Login Settings by clicking in the top-right corner of Facebook and clicking Settings > Security and Login. Scroll down to Use two-factor authentication and click Edit. Choose the authentication method you want to add and follow the on-screen instructions. Click Enable once you've selected and turned on an authentication method.

In the app, head to your profile page, tap on the three-dot icon in the upper-right corner, and then tap Two-Factor Authentication. Toggle the Require Security Code option, select Turn On.

Tap the ghost icon at the top of your camera screen. Tap the Settings gear in the top right hand corner of your Profile screen. Tap 'Login Verification' under the 'My Account' section. Tap the 'Continue' button. Enter the verification code sent to your mobile phone and tap 'Continue'.

Go to your Security and Privacy Settings on Twitter.com and select the option to "send login verification requests to my phone." When prompted, click "Okay, send me a message." If you receive the verification message, click Yes. (Note: you'll have to enter your password.) Enter the verification code sent to your mobile phone to access your account.

Go to Settings. Look under "Account" > "Two-step verification" and hit enable. You can enter your phone number just like everything else on this list, or choose to input your email as an alternative place to receive the verification code. Having an associated email with your WhatsApp account is important since the service won't let you reverify yourself if you've last used WhatsApp within seven days and forgot your PIN. So if you can't wait a week to reverify for whatever reason (lost phone, can't remember your PIN), it's helpful to have an email to log yourself in or disable 2FA.

Action Items + Get more add-ins

Hey Jen, After speaking with are production manager, we decided that we will make the move in Febuary. I have cc'd Dan at Loxley, but he won't mind, right?

Please see the attached plans for the

None of this is urgent, so you dont need to worry about replying this week (or at all lol) no, it can wait til next week ok?

Have a great week then love.

DO include your face.

Choose a photo that looks like you.

DO wear what you would wear to work.

DON'T look like a grump.

DON'T crop an obvious group shot.

Choose a background that isn't distracting.
